

The Iron Legion Cheat Sheet

Members died from: In Old Age (regardless of exact cause) OR premature death due to “wearing out the body” (i.e. alcohol abuse, long term disease, living “fast” or stressful lives)

Deathmarks: ALL wear gray bands on arms and legs. Those that had more difficult lives wear more, and a higher number of bands are a sign of Valor within the Legion. Special distinction Deathmarks may also be worn (see Iron Legion Information Packet).

Strengths: Deliberate, cunning patience, efficiency, order. Many had financial affluence, power, and/or high intelligence in life, and can often use their ancestors to influence current activities in the Skinlands. Extensive training and teaching of all new souls, so that each can deal with even the most difficult tasks without indecision or doubt. Non-egotistical survivors, experienced at blending in; calm acceptance of necessary acts in order to achieve or get what they want. Fairness and justice (lying attorneys are smelted down as punishment).

Beneficial Members: Engineers, architects (many die old); high-tech computer gurus (like Bill Gates); filthy rich businessmen (like Donald Trump); all of the great scientists (like Einstein); powerful government officials (like Senators); old mob bosses (like the Marinelli’s).

Uses of Iron Legion: 9 out of 10 Anacreons from other Legions will use architects and engineers from the Iron Legion to fortify and build their citadels. The best fortification planners are from the Iron Legion.

Deathlord’s Views: The Ashen Lady would like to run the Hierarchy in Charon’s place, but doesn’t brag about her capabilities. Instead she is undermining the other Legions by forming alliances (using money payouts & favors) with the officials under the other Deathlords.

Friendly to Faeries (soft spot for them); Keen interest in Werewolves (wants to contact wolves’ spirits); LOATHES Vampires (will smelt them down at every chance, as well as causes problems in the Skinlands for them); Pretends Mages and Mummies don’t exist (no interest in them, so the Legion has no official policy on them).

Inter-Legion Tension: The Ashen Lady likes to surround herself with all of the best poets, philosophers, and scientists, and these members lead a life of luxury within her “Salon” (her inner circle). This causes anger among the “grunt” wraiths but all of their complaints fall on deaf ears. Some members of other Legions crossover to join her Salon – surprisingly this doesn’t upset their previous Deathlords.

Arcanois: Embody: Arcanos is officially prohibited in the Iron Legion (though a special group of these wraiths is maintained). Any Iron Legion members caught practicing Puppetry: Arcanoi are immediately recruited into the “Communiqués” (elite force of worldly messengers). Though some join begrudgingly, many end up becoming Iron Legion advocates in time. Those that do not comply are smelted down.